Early Italian Art.

The University Prints included in this volume cover the art of Italy from the earliest times to about the year 1500. The art of the High Renaissance following that date is covered in a separate volume. The prints are issued primarily in cut form for class use. The bound edition is designed for libraries, and for teachers whose selections for class use should be made from the prints themselves rather than from mere printed titles.

The University Prints are designed for the use of scholars and art lovers. To meet their requirements, two facts have been constantly borne in mind.

First, it has been the aim to give a record of Italian art, rather than a miscellany of pretty things. In such a series there are necessarily subjects that are not attractive. There are none that are not significant. Never do we so appreciate a masterpiece as when we lead up to it step by step along the rugged pathway of art endeavor.

Second, it is necessary to sift with care the material carelessly handed down by tradition. Evidence accumulates that the pedigree of many of our pictures is untrustworthy or false. It is obviously misleading to form our ideas of Giotto from works which he did not paint.

The University Prints offer two advantages. They are comprehensive. No really important artist or work is omitted. They are edited. No work is assigned to any artist without the authority of reliable scholarship. It is on the strength of these two vital characteristics that they commend themselves to a serious public.

SUPPLEMENTARY

Seven subjects published by special request since the original series was chosen, are here inserted preliminary to the regular series. Numbers B. 71, 158, 243, and 376, replace the subjects originally published under those numbers, and are sent when those numbers are ordered unless the earlier subjects are specifically mentioned. Numbers M. 1, 7 and 8 are additions.
